

Max One Pro from The Weather Company

Powering the next generation of weather presenters

Weather your way

What if you could turn your independent weather passion into a polished, professional brand? The world of weather is no longer just on linear TV. Audiences are flocking to digital platforms, and they're looking for a fresh, authentic voice. That's your cue.

Today's meteorologists are building their own brands, connecting directly with audiences on social media, streaming platforms, and custom apps. But as an independent meteorologist, you face a unique set of challenges: finding reliable, affordable data, accessing sophisticated visualization tools, and producing high-quality content geared towards the digital world.

What if you could produce broadcast-quality weather content from your home office, for a fraction of the cost? Max One Pro gives you the powerful data and visualization tools you need to build your independent brand and stand out from the crowd — all from a single, powerful platform.
